Fourth Sunday of Easter

What does eternal life mean? Pope Francis left a beautiful testament, to be read after his death, saying, "I ask that my mortal remains rest awaiting the day of resurrection in the Papal Basilica of Santa Maria Maggiore." I haven't heard many people speak about the resurrection of the body, but our dear Franciscus clearly believed that his body would rise on the last day.

Jesus, in today's gospel from John 10, assures us when he says, speaking metaphorically about sheep, "I give them eternal life, and they shall never perish." Can we possibly hope that we are counted in that number, that there is truly life after this life?

Let's lean into Catholic teaching. At death, the immortal soul does not perish. Immediately after death, the soul undergoes a "particular judgment," based on its life on earth. At the end of time, there will be a final resurrection where all souls will be reunited with their bodies, and the Last Judgment will take place. This is the moment that Pope Francis awaits.

Here's a beautiful analogy, given to us by Rev. John McKenzie, SJ. When we are in the womb, we can't know anything but the womb. This is where we get our food, oxygen, warmth, and safety. But if an embryo, already grown into a baby and birthed into a life outside the womb, could talk to the pre-born embryo, think of the confidence she could give that embryo: "You'll breathe! You'll eat! You'll dance! You'll talk! I know you're afraid of the unknown. But trust me, you want to be born."

Trust me, says Jesus. I will give those who embrace me eternal life. You want to be born into that.

What fears do you harbor about being born into eternal life?

Pray for Vocations!

As Catholics, we firmly believe that God has a plan for our lives! He calls some to marriage, some to the priesthood, and others to religious life or to live as generous single people. Fully living our own vocations—and teaching young people how to discern God's call—is a serious duty, but also a joyful one. During this week, please encourage the young people in your life—children, grandchildren, students, and friends—to be open if God calls them to priesthood or religious life.

Wayne Stetson and his family would like to thank our Immaculate Conception family for their kindness and prayers during these past few months.

Cuarto Domingo de Pascua

¿Qué significa vida eterna? El Papa Francisco dejó un hermoso testimonio, para ser leído después de su muerte, que decía: «Pido que mis restos mortales descansen en espera del día de la resurrección en la Basílica Papal de Santa María la Mayor». No he oído hablar mucho de la resurrección del cuerpo, pero nuestro querido Francisco creía firmemente que su cuerpo resucitaría en el último día.

Jesús, en el Evangelio de hoy (Juan 10), nos asegura cuando habla metafóricamente de las ovejas: «Yo les doy vida eterna y no perecerán jamás». ¿Acaso podemos tener la esperanza de ser contados entre ellos, de que realmente hay vida después de esta vida?

Apoyémonos en la enseñanza católica. Al morir, el alma inmortal no perece. Inmediatamente después de la muerte, el alma sufre un "juicio particular", basado en su vida terrenal. Al final de los tiempos, habrá una resurrección final donde todas las almas se reunirán con sus cuerpos, y tendrá lugar el Juicio Final. Este es el momento que el Papa Francisco espera.

Aquí les tengo una hermosa analogía, que nos dio el reverendo John McKenzie, SJ. Cuando estamos en el útero, no podemos conocer nada más que el útero. De ahí obtenemos nuestro alimento, oxígeno, calor y seguridad. Pero si un embrión, ya desarrollado y nacido fuera del útero, pudiera hablar con un embrión nonato, piensen en la confianza que le podría dar: "¡Respirarás! ¡Comerás! ¡Bailarás! ¡Hablarás! Sé que le temes a lo desconocido. Pero créeme, quieres nacer".

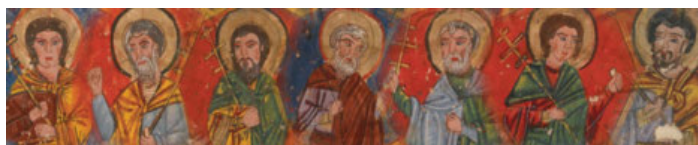

Confía en mí, nos dice Jesús. Yo les daré a aquellos que me aman vida eterna. Quieres nacer en eso.

¿Qué miedos tienes de nacer a la vida eterna?
