Sixth Sunday of Easter

We're getting close to the end of the Easter season, which means we're getting close to the end of the Book of Revelation, which we only hear in the Easter season, except for the Feast of All Saints. What a mysterious and beautiful book it is. Sadly, many Christians waste their precious years poring over its more enigmatic sections, looking for codes to the day and the hour of the Second Coming. That's not what it's about, but people throughout time keep identifying the villains of their own day as the Anti-Christ.

Now, I've had my own suspicions of some figures in our time. Jeff Bezos, for example, gets my vote, because Amazon has so taken over our purchasing practices that if you don't happen to have a computer, or the right credit card, you won't be able to buy things nearly as easily as the rest of us. That evokes, in my brain, the many references in Revelation of those with the number 666 on their foreheads. These are the ones who have bent the knee to the Anti-Christ, and are the only ones who can buy or sell (Rev. 13:16-19).

I'm only half-serious, of course. The Anti-Christ referenced in Revelation was the Emperor Nero, and those with the numbers 666 were all the people—Christians among them—who revered him in order not to be murdered. Revelation isn't a prophecy of a figure to come. It's about the insane sociopath on the throne in Rome in the last years of the first century AD.

But, above all, it's about our future with Christ. The Spirit and the Bride say, "Come!" We long for that day. Come, Lord Jesus.

What temptations in the modern world make it hard to hear the voice of Jesus?

Sexto Domingo de Pascua

Nos estamos acercando al final de la temporada de Pascua, lo que significa que nos acercamos al final del libro del Apocalipsis, el cual sólo escuchamos en el tiempo de Pascua, a excepción de la fiesta de Todos los Santos. ¡Es un libro tan misterioso y hermoso! Lamentablemente, muchos cristianos desperdician sus preciosos años estudiando sus secciones más enigmáticas, buscando códigos para el día y la hora de la Segunda Venida. No se trata de eso, pero la gente a lo largo del tiempo sigue identificando a los villanos de su época como el Anticristo.

Ahora bien, he tenido mis propias sospechas sobre algunas figuras de nuestro tiempo. Jeff Bezos, por ejemplo, tiene mi voto, porque Amazon ha dominado tanto nuestras prácticas de compra que, si no tienes una computadora o una tarjeta de crédito adecuada, no podrás comprar cosas tan fácilmente como el resto del mundo. Eso evoca en mi cerebro las muchas referencias del Apocalipsis a personas con el número 666 en la frente. Éstos son los que han doblado la rodilla ante el Anticristo, y son los únicos que pueden comprar o vender (Apocalipsis 13:16-19).

Claro que solo hablo medio en serio. El Anticristo al que se refiere el Apocalipsis era el emperador Nerón, y aquellos con el número 666 eran todos —cristianos entre ellos— que lo veneraban para no ser asesinados. El Apocalipsis no es una profecía de un personaje futuro. Trata sobre el sociópataamente que ocupaba el trono de Roma en los últimos años del siglo I d. C.

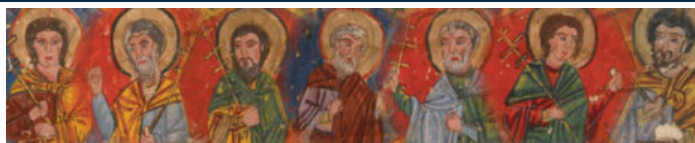

Pero, sobre todo, se trata de nuestro futuro con Cristo. El Espíritu y la Esposa dicen: "¡Ven!". Anhelamos ese día. Ven, Señor Jesús.

¿Qué tentaciones del mundo moderno nos impiden escuchar la voz de Jesús?
