Second Sunday of Lent

My great friend and eloquent scripture scholar, Steve Mueller, has a compelling take on the Transfiguration, published in the winter edition of his daily scripture journal, Words of Grace.

Echoing Fr. Richard Rohr, he says that the three disciples Peter, James, and John (often the three eyewitnesses to cornerstone events in Jesus' life) got a "peek at the really real" when Jesus was transfigured before them. In one flashing moment, they "saw" the 'normally hidden divinity embodied in Jesus blazing forth for this one tiny moment in all its dazzling beauty.'

I've had lots of moments like that. Something a beloved family member or friend says or does suddenly reveals to me the dazzling beauty of their inner spirit.

Remember Thomas Merton's famous reflection upon leaving his Trappist monastery for a medical appointment in Louisville, Kentucky, in 1958. While standing in the middle of a busy shopping district, he was overwhelmed with the realization that he was connected to all the strangers around him, even though he lived a monastic life. "There's no way of telling people," he famously mused, "that they are all walking around shining like the sun." I absolutely believe that, and am thrilled at the many experiences I've had, and continue to have, of the radiance of the brilliance and goodness of people around me, all "shining like the sun."

But why did this moment cause such fear in the disciples? I wonder if they, utterly immersed in the Hebrew scriptures, trembled because they remembered that Moses' face was radiant when he encountered God. Were they actually encountering God? And what did that mean for their own lives? Now that's something that causes me to tremble.

In what ways have you encountered God through people "shining like the sun"?

REKINDLE – SYMBOLON PART 2

Adult Formation Begins March 17 & 18

Rekindle is a welcoming adult faith-formation program for anyone who wants to understand the Catholic faith more clearly—returning Catholics, lifelong Catholics seeking renewal, and adults preparing for First Communion or Confirmation.

Our next eight-week module features Symbolon Part 2: Living the Faith. This series examines the practical side of being Catholic: from understanding the Real Presence in the Eucharist to living a life of prayer and mission. We will explore how "the Truth will set you free" applies to our modern world and how we are called to be disciples in our families and communities. Each session includes prayer, high-quality video presentations, and small-group discussion.

New participants are welcome! You do not need to have attended Part 1 to join us for this module.

• Tuesday Morning Session: 9:30–11:00 AM, beginning March 17

• Wednesday Evening Session: 6:30–8:00 PM, beginning March 18

SEGUNDO DOMINGO DE CUARESMA

Mi gran amigo y elocuente estudioso de las Escrituras, Steve Mueller, tiene una visión convincente de la Transfiguración, publicada en la edición de invierno de su diario bíblico, Palabras de Gracia. Haciendo eco del padre Richard Rohr, dice que los tres discípulos Pedro, Santiago y Juan (a menudo los tres testigos oculares de los acontecimientos fundamentales de la vida de Jesús) tuvieron un "vistazo de lo verdaderamente real" cuando Jesús se transfiguró ante ellos. En un instante fugaz, "vieron" la "divinidad normalmente oculta de Jesús, brillando en toda su deslumbrante belleza durante ese pequeño instante."

He tenido muchos momentos así. Cuando un familiar o amigo querido dice o hace algo, de repente se me revela la deslumbrante belleza de su espíritu interior.

Recuerden la famosa reflexión de Thomas Merton al salir de su monasterio trapense para una cita médica en Louisville, Kentucky, en 1958. En medio de un concurrido distrito comercial, se sintió abrumado al darse cuenta de que estaba conectado con todos los desconocidos que lo rodeaban, a pesar de vivir una vida monástica.

"No hay forma de decirle a la gente", reflexionó célebremente, "que todos caminan por ahí brillando como el sol". Lo creo totalmente y me emocionan las muchas experiencias que he tenido, y sigo teniendo, del resplandor de la brillantez y la bondad de las personas que me rodean, todas "brillando como el sol".

Pero ¿por qué este momento causó tanto temor en los discípulos? Me pregunto si, inmersos en las escrituras hebreas, temblaron al recordar que el rostro de Moisés estaba radiante cuando se encontró con Dios. ¿Estaban realmente encontrándose con Dios? ¿Y qué significó eso para sus propias vidas? Eso sí que me estremece.

¿De qué maneras has tenido un encuentro con Dios a través de personas que brillan como el sol?
